TO OUR NEIGHBORS

January & February, 1983, Vol. VIII, No. 1

New Parking Lot Opens at Laguna Honda

Mayor Dianne Feinstein participated in a formal dedication in early December of a new public parking lot owned and operated by the city at the Laguna Honda School on Sixth Avenue. It is the first new off-street parking lot in the city in nine years, and it is hoped that it will help ease congestion in the Inner Sunset neighborhood.

The lot allows up to two hours of parking at 25¢ per hour with a flat night rate of $1.

UCSF leased the Laguna Honda school building from the S. F. Unified School District in 1981 when the district declared it and a number of other schools as surplus property.

A conference room, located on the first floor of the building, is available to members of the neighborhood as a community resource, when not being used by the University, including evenings and weekends. To reserve the room call 666-4032.

In addition, the UCSF garage parking facilities on Parnassus Avenue are available in the evenings and weekends to campus neighbors and their guests. The hours are between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. and all day on weekends and University holidays. By contacting the Parking Office at 666-2566, local residents may purchase parking entrance tickets for 75¢ each or buy an annual permit for $24.

Neighbors who park in the garage also are encouraged to ride the UCSF Night Security Shuttle. This is a free escort service which was started to enhance personal safety for employees and guests on or near campus. The clearly marked University car leaves approximately every 20 to 30 minutes from the Moffitt Hospital circle, 505 Parnassus Avenue, and operates daily from 5 p.m. to 1:45 a.m.

It is recommended that visitors park on the H level of the Millberry Union garage and go to the west side to the Police Department where a shuttle will be called. The shuttle goes anywhere in the area bordered by Clarendon, Clayton, Waller, South Drive and Ninth Avenue. For shuttle service to or from these areas call 666-1414.

Founders Day & Inauguration Mar 5

The neighborhood is invited to attend UCSF's second annual Founders Day and the inauguration of its fifth chancellor, Julius R. Krevans, MD, on Saturday, March 5. As last year, Founders Day events are planned to bring together all segments of the campus, alumni and the community to celebrate the origins, history, growth and contributions of the University.

The inauguration of Chancellor Krevans will be held at 2 p.m. in Cole Hall, 513 Parnassus Avenue. The inaugural address will be given by Steven Muller, PhD, president of Johns Hopkins University, where Dr. Krevans served before coming to UCSF in 1971.

The traditional University of California academic robing ceremony and procession across Parnassus Avenue will take place before the actual inauguration, with UC President Saxon officiating.

The day will begin with a hospitality suite in the Faculty Club, 500 Parnassus Avenue, at 8:30 a.m. where visitors may pick up literature & program information and view selected TV news spots featuring UCSF. In addition a multi-media slide presentation, showing what the campus is today, will be shown beginning at 8:30 a.m. and running throughout the day.

Concurrent lectures by faculty from the schools of Dentistry, Nursing, Medicine and Pharmacy will occur from 9:30 to 10 a.m. in rooms HSW 300 to 303. Topics will include fetal intervention, orofacial anomalies, drug design and health care costs.

From 10:15 to 11:30 a.m. there will be tours and mini-presentations in each of the four schools, followed by the installation of new chimes for the Founders Day clock at 11:45 a.m. A gourmet luncheon will follow in the Millberry Union gym.

Tickets are required for the Founders Day luncheon and inauguration. For further information call 666-2401.

Schmid New Dean

Rudi Schmid, MD, has been appointed dean of the UCSF School of Medicine, it was announced by Chancellor Julius R. Krevans, MD. The appointment is pending the UC Regents' approval in January.

Schmid, who is professor of Medicine and director of the Liver Center, has been a member of the National Academy of Sciences since 1974. He is internationally recognized as a leader in the field of liver disease and related metabolic disorders, and has created one of the foremost centers for liver disease in the world at UCSF and in UCSF's Rice Laboratory at SFGH.

Chief of the Division of Gastroenterology, Schmid has established particularly strong relationships with the practicing gastroenterology community in San Francisco, who participate to a remarkable degree in the teaching and clinical activities of the Gastroenterology Unit.

Schmid received his MD degree from the University of Zurich and took additional medical training at UCSF and the University of Minnesota School of Medicine. He will assume the position of dean on March 1, 1983.

New Board of Overseers Members

Three new members have been appointed to the UCSF Board of Overseers: Herman Gallegos, Eileen R. Growald and Gene Carbone.

Gallegos is chair of the board and chief executive officer of the US Human Resources Corporation, a management consulting firm with headquarters in San Francisco. He has been actively involved in promoting the social and economic well-being of Hispanic Americans for some 28 years.

Growald is president of the Institute for the Advancement of Health, which is headquartered in New York and promotes scientific research and health education in the interactions between mind and body. She also is a director of People for the American Way and of the Rockefeller Family Fund.

Gene Carbone is immediate past president of the UCSF Hospitals Auxiliary. She replaces Jeannette Katz as ex-officio member of the board.

The UCSF Board of Overseers was formed in October, 1980. It consists of 21 business and community leaders whose role is to advise the Chancellor, deans and campus leaders on issues of concern to the campus. The group meets three times a year.

Nutrition Help for Immigrant Children

UCSF researchers have established a new program to help immigrant children make a healthy transition from their native fare to American foods.

The project is being carried out by the Bay Area Human Nutrition Center located at SFGH, which is affiliated with UCSF and UC-Berkeley. It involves immigrant children at three S. F. School District Newcomer Education Centers in the Mission, Chinatown and South of Market.

Children at these schools have recently arrived from Latin America, the Philippines, China and Southeast Asia, and are known to be at high risk for nutritional problems. Each child is examined by Center medical and dental staff; those needing further evaluation are referred to a new Pediatric Nutrition Clinic at SFGH, which performs diabetes screening and other assessments.

As part of the project, information on current diet and family food habits will be obtained and nutritional education programs developed appropriate to the cultural backgrounds and financial situations of the children, according to Norman Kretchmer, MD, PhD, who with Malcolm Holliday, MD, leads the Human Nutrition Center.

Health Education Workshop Held

The UCSF Office of Public Service Programs and the San Francisco School Health Education Committee sponsored a workshop on health education materials for school teachers in December.

The workshop, which drew some 150 teachers from public, parochial and private schools, introduced health education classroom materials developed by 30 S. F. agencies for students from kindergarten to the 12th grade.

The workshop also presented information on a wide range of health topics, including nutrition, dental care, first aid, drugs and alcohol, human sexuality and family health.

A new Resource Directory for School Health Education, describing health education resources of some 60 voluntary health agencies, community organizations and health care settings in S. F., was distributed to all teachers attending the workshop.
